WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.
(By J. C. Welliver.)

Reorganization of the senate, which began in reality when President Roosevelt squeezed from that reluctant body the almost unanimous vote by which it passed, a little over two years ago, the railroad rate law, is proceeding apace. The rate bill's passage was accomplished by processes of moral suasion. The conservatives of the senate, though not liking the measure—and there were plenty of such on both sides of the party line—were made to believe that there was a public sentiment demanding the law, which it would be dangerous to ignore. So the bill passed. But that struggle was not marked by any particular evidences of the sort of changes which have taken place since. La Follette had just come to the upper chamber in time to take a prominent part in that debate. Defying precedent, he entered the debate and made a great speech, offering numerous radical amendments, among them one for a physical valuation of the railroads, which received a very respectable vote. But even then there was no evidence that the new radicalism was going to have the direct effect of making many changes in the personnel of the body.

La Follette Gets Scapls.

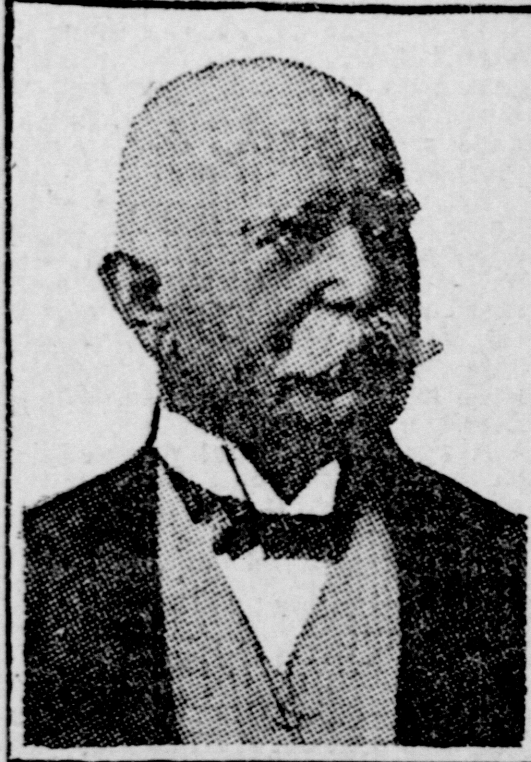

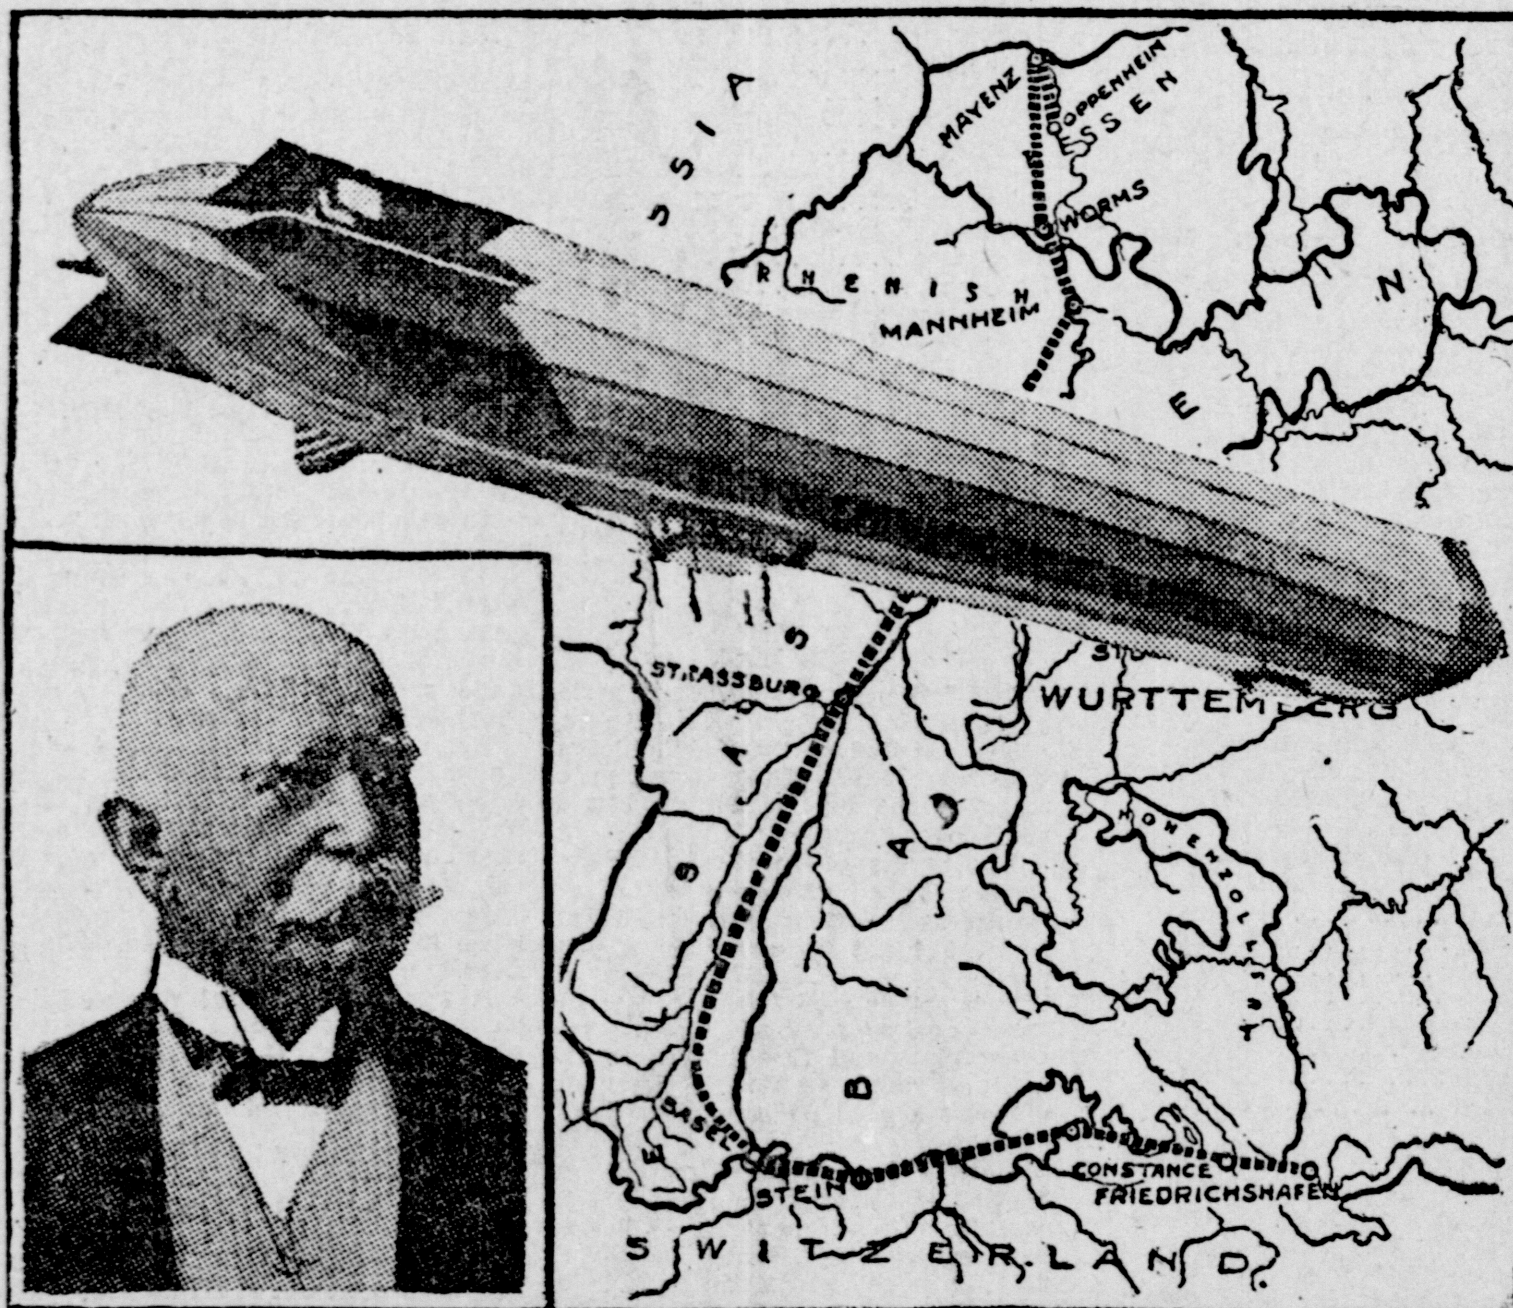

Now, however, it is plain that La Follette was building wiser than he knew, for the purpose of his radical propaganda. The first senatorial change attributed directly to La Follette influence was that occasioned by the defeat of John Fairfield Dryden, senator from New Jersey. La Follette was in league with the independents in Jersey who made the fight against Dryden; he talked for them and he was much in conference with them. They gained power enough to deadlock a close legislature; Dryden was beaten; and the first senatorial scalp hung at the Wisconsin man's belt.

Meanwhile La Follette had taken an interest in behalf of Morris Brown, candidate for senator in Nebraska. Brown was elected. The Wisconsin man early developed a feud with Long of Kansas, and now Long has been defeated, and his defeat is popularly attributed directly to speeches by La Follette against him in Kansas. La Follette didn't approve of Senator Albert B. Kirtledge of South Dakota, and La Follette has talked much in South Dakota, where he has a large following. Kirtledge was defeated this spring, in the state-wide primary, and Governor Coe I. Crawford, another of the La Follette type, was nominated by the Republicans for senator.

La Follette had also invaded Oregon, and aired his reasons for believing that Senator Fulton was an undesirable. Fulton was defeated and the state primary named Geo. Chamberlain, a democrat now governor of the state, for the succession. He will be elected, under the Oregon law, by the unanimous vote of the legislature without regard to politics.

DISCRIMINATION BOOST FOR BRYAN

WESTERN STATES AROUSED

Rates Refused Democrats and Granted to Taft Notification, Great Campaign Material in West

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 8.—The news that the Western Traffic Association has finally decided that under no circumstances will it grant a reduction in rates to the Lincoln notification of Bryan next week, pleases the candidate as much as any piece of news he has received since he was nominated. While he is sorry that many of his friends will be unable to attend on account of the expense, he feels sure they will all read the speech of acceptance and the action of the railroads will mean 75,000 votes for the democratic ticket in Kansas, Idaho, Colorado and Nebraska as the railroads are the real issue in these states.

Bristow defeated Long for the senate in Kansas by promising to vote for anything to abolish railroad discrimination and Bryan believes that if the democratic orators in these states will impress their audiences with the fact that there was reduced rates to the Taft notification, which were refused to the democrats, it will make votes and that is all they want at present.

Rev. W. L. Dawson of London, the noted British lecturer, called on Bryan today and paid his respects. Dawson is greatly interested in political methods in America and interrogated the candidate at length as to how he will push the campaign, etc. Bryan made no sensational disclosures. There were two presidential aspirants under the same roof at Fairview for a few minutes today. Eugene Chaffin, the Chicago prohibition standard bearer, intimated to Bryan that the prohibition vote would be very large on account of denunciations in the dominant parties.

Governor Haskell of Oklahoma, the treasurer of the national committee, left for Chicago this morning to confer Monday with the full membership of the finance committee, when it will be decided how the half million or more needed to conduct the campaign can be raised.

FT. ATKINSON, Wis., Aug. 8.—Halbert Lewis Hoard eldest son of ex-Gov. W. D. Hoard and editor of the Fort Atkinson Union is seriously ill with hemorrhage. His condition is very low and fears are entertained that he may not recover. Ex-Gov. Hoard, who has been spending several weeks at Espanora island, Lake Huron was called home by telegram today.

Were Feelingless and Cold

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 8.—"The American Federation of Labor sent me as its agent to Chicago and Denver to see what the two great parties would do about the labor injunction plank in their platforms. I was received with greater sympathy and friendliness by the democratic party. As agent of the Federation I report the fact back to the organization. I am not trying to dictate any man's vote, nor am I trying to throw the labor vote to Bryan."

This statement was made today by Gompers after a lengthy conference with local labor leaders. Gompers said he was not going to Chicago to see Bryan, or to take part in any labor conference, but he would not deny he might see Bryan soon.

"I have invitations to speak all over the country. I will accept many of them. My only object is to report to the organizations of the Federation what my work was with the two parties and how I was received."

FOREST FIRES NOW INVADE THE STATES

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 8.—Tremendous losses have been caused in western Idaho and western Montana by forest fires which are raging, following the disastrous conflagration which swept the Kootenay country in Canada early this week. The flames have worked over the Couer D'Alene mountains, sweeping a rich timber belt and threatening to penetrate many of the mine shafts. Hundreds of rangers have been summoned to fight the flames. The loss will be enormous, it is feared.

PLENTY OF STRIKE BREAKERS.

WINNIPEG, Can., Aug. 8.—The promise of the Canadian Pacific officials to replace with a strikebreaker every man who walked out of the shops is being carried out today. In the Winnipeg shops accommodations have been prepared for a thousand strikebreakers. Similar preparations have been made in every shop in the Canadian northwest. While confirmation is lacking, it is thought the railroad will import a horde of men from the United States to assist the Japanese already at work.

OWES FOUR TIMES ASSETS

Of Debts of $453,000 He Disputes All Claims but Those of Mother and O'Mara

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Harry K. Thaw has gone into the hands of a receiver. He filed a petition in bankruptcy yesterday, placing his assets at $128,012, and his liabilities (alleged) at $453,140. He disputes all of the bills against him excepting that of his mother for $191,000 and of Detective O'Mara for $400. O'Mara is Thaw's receiver. Of the claims against Thaw $148,000 is for attorneys' fees—this does not include the fee of Delmas—and $30,400 for expert alienists who appeared on the witness stand. The total number of creditors named is only thirteen.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be the heaviest loser by Thaw's bankruptcy. It means the loss to her of $1,000 a month spending money. Information leaked out today that Thaw was actuated by his desire to free himself from her insistent demands as much as to frustrate the collection of the excessive attorney and witness fees.

From an absolutely reliable source it was learned today that Evelyn had been forcing her husband to give her $1,000 a month spending money, besides her fixed settlement, and that she has carried on this drain to such an extent that Thaw, despairing agreed to his counsel's suggestion of bankruptcy. The petition also means, it is declared, the absolute severance of all ties of affection between them.

FIRE ENFOLDS THE REDWOOD TREASURES

STOCKTON, Cal., Aug. 8.—Fire today is closing in from both sides upon the Calaveras big trees, the finest redwoods in the world, and it is feared they will be consumed before night. The fire is causing incalculable loss, and hundred of rangers are fighting desperately against odds that are apparently unconquerable. The fire jumped the Stanislaus river in three places.

NEW ZEALANDERS' WELCOME READY

AMERICANS' VISIT

RIFLE COMPETITION IS OFF

British Law Forbids Landing of Any Armed Force—Battleships
Arrive Tomorrow

AUCKLAND, Aug. 8.—A wireless from the fleet which was received today, says it will arrive here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning, and asks pilots to meet the ships to aid their reaching the assigned anchorage without trouble.

The arranged rifle match between the New Zealanders and the team from the American warships has been called off because of the Australian law preventing the landing of any armed party on British soil. All efforts to induce the premier to modify the restrictions have proven unavailing, he declaring that he cannot change the imperial code.

Sir Joseph Ward, in a book printed by the government for presentation to American officers as a souvenir, has written the following: "No visit of any foreign warships was ever so welcome as your is today. In receiving the fleet a sense of kinship stirs our hearts, for we feel that the greatest nation of the west has come to visit us, this fleet being the visible embodiment of might, majesty and dominion."

"President Roosevelt, in every act and word of his life work, reflects and voices our national ethics and aspirations. The name of Roosevelt in New Zealand stands for national righteousness and is cherished, honored and revered. The fleet stands for justice, peace and freedom. These are the thoughts and feelings which are stirring our hearts today."

EIGHT BURNED ON LAKE STEAMER

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8.—Six passengers and two of the crew of the steamer Premier lost their lives when the vessel burned to the water's edge at Warren's Landing at the northern end of Lake Winnipeg, Thursday. The news of the accident reached here today by boat from the head of the lake.

The dead are: Mrs. A. Couture, of Selkirk; Mr. Mr. Oben of Gimli; Miss Povah, Winnipeg; Elmer Jones, Oscar Overton and L. Fryer, three boys of Selkirk; Gus Weil, cook, and Norman Fisher, his assistant, also lost their lives. The fire started in the engine room of the steamer during the night and spread with so much rapidity that as many as 38 persons aboard had but a moment to escape. Those who did leaped overboard in their night garments.

The victims either smothered or were burned to death in their berths. The fire ignited the piers and buildings of the trading post at the landing, and though the traders and their men fought hard, most of the post is in ruins.

BOOTH RACES TO GOAL WITH BLIND TERROR

SOUTHAMPTON, Aug. 8.—Realizing that blindness will soon put an end to his activities and desiring to complete his chain of world-wide missionary work before that time, General William Booth, accompanied by his staff, sailed today on a tour of South Africa. The general will visit all the principal cities and establish posts in cities not already represented in the Salvation Army work. The chief purpose, however, is to enlist native workers in the army's cause. He believes that one earnest native worker can do more work than half a dozen foreign missionaries. Cataracts are forming over both eyes of the aged general.

NEW ZEALAND REFUSES SUBSIDY.

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 6.—The New Zealand government has refused to enter into any arrangement to aid in the grant of a subsidy to the Canadian-Australian line according to advices received from New Zealand.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 8.—Because of lack of ready cash with which to buy wheat at its present high prices to fulfill export contracts, a receivership for the Pillsbury-Washburn Milling company was forced at 11 o'clock this morning.

The receivers are: A. C. Loring, C. S. Pillsbury and A. C. Cobb, all of Minneapolis. They are under a joint bond of half a million dollars. A meeting of the creditors will be held Monday. The mills will not shut down, and never will shut down. The company is immensely wealthy, most of the stock being held in England. The receivership proceedings were held before Judge Milton Purdy of the United States district court. SENATOR WILLIAM B. ALLISON.

DUBUQUE, Ia., Aug. 8.—All Dubuque is mourning this afternoon when the body of late Senator Allison was laid to rest in Linwood cemetery overlooking the Mississippi river. The services which were the essence of simplicity, consisted merely of the reading of a prayer by Rev. J. T. Bergen of the Westminter Presbyterian church. There were no music or flowers. The funeral brought to Dubuque a most notable assemblage of distinguished statesmen, including Vice President Fairbanks, Speaker Cannon, Governor Cummins of Iowa and twenty senators and twenty congressmen; also all the state officials.

BABY'S EYESIGHT WAS THREATENED

By Terrible Eczema—Head Became a Mass of Itching Rash and Sores—Would Scratch Till Blood Came—Much Money Wasted in Fruitless Treatments—Disease Was Soon

CURED AT SLIGHT COST BY CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Our little girl was two months old when she got a rash on her face and within five days her face and head were all one sore. We used different remedies but it got worse instead of better and we thought she would turn blind and that her ears would fall off. She suffered terribly, and would scratch until the blood came. At night we had to pin her hands down. This went on until she was five months old, then I had her under our family doctor's care, but she continued to grow worse. He said it was eczema. When she was seven months old I started to use Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent, and in three weeks—what a change! I kept using the Cuticura Remedies for two months and our baby was a different girl. You could not see a sign of a sore and she was as fair as a new-born baby, and all for the small cost of a dollar and seventy-five cents where we had spent ten times the money for doctoring. She is now two years old and has not had a sign of the eczema since. Mrs. H. F. Budke, R. F. D. 4, Le Sueur, Minn., Apr. 15 and May 2, 1907."

SLEEP KILLED

By an Itching Humor. Another Cure by Cuticura Remedies.

"I broke out with a humor which spread almost all over my body. The itching would get worse on retiring, so I could not sleep. I tried several remedies but it grew worse until I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Pills which began to relieve me at once. By the time I had used one vial of the Pills, the humor was entirely gone. I wish every sufferer could secure the Cuticura Remedies. Travis Bates, Hamburg, Ark., April 26, 1907."

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humor of Infants, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap (25c) to cleanse the skin, Cuticura Ointment (50c) to treat the skin, and Cuticura Resolvent (50c) in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c per vial of 60 to Purify the Blood. In a protested game yesterday La Crosse for the fifth straight time administered a crushing defeat to the Rockford Reds. The final score of 7 to 0 told the tale. Pink Hawley was in the box for La Crosse and held the "Kids" at his mercy. All through the game the wrangling of the Rockford players was conspicuous. The fans as a majority were with the Reds, as some of the decisions of List were questionable and the kicking of the Rockford players was some times warranted.

Rogers, the star twirler of the Reds, started the game and for the first four innings had every thing pretty well his way, but in the fifth inning the continuous wrangling sent him up in the air and it appeared he had given up hopes. It was during the fifth inning before any team had scored, that Acting Manager O'Leary announced to the official scorer that the game was being played under protest, on the grounds that the talk of List was unbearable. List, however, refused to announce to the fans that the game was being played under protest and stated after the game that the Reds would not protest the game, having no grounds upon which to register a protest. It is, however, up to President Moll and his ruling in the case will be upheld.

Score in the Fifth.

After struggling for four innings without any success the Colts settled down for business in the fifth and decided to score. Bues was the first man up and drove the ball over to deep center. Eberly started to sacrifice, but beat the ball and was followed by Killian, who played the same trick. With the bases full Pink appeared and drove the ball to the pitcher. Bues was caught at the home plate, but Pink registered safely at first and after Bues was put out at home, Moore returned the ball to first and the plate meantime Eberly crossed and went for the first base choice and Tracy sent Killian home on a hit, but Graves in trying to stretch the hit went out at the plate, retiring the side.

In the next inning Safford started the game with a hit to right. Duchien flew out to Butcher and Bues following filled the bases. Eberly, the emergency hitter, then appeared and drove the ball against the right field fence, sending the three scores across the plate, but in trying to stretch it to a homer was thrown out at the plate. Killian went out, Hickey to Harnes, retiring the side. Not satisfied with this, they tarted in again in the next inning. Rogers objected to one of List's decisions and thinking it a joke threw the ball high in the air to Wallace. He was immediately ordered from the game by List.

In the seventh inning Hawley was the first man up and was given a pass. Graves sacrificed him to second and Tracey went to first on an error by Wallace. Safford then hit to center and scored Hawley. Duchien bagged another hit and Tracey crossed the plate for the seventh run. In the next inning Hawley started out again with a base on balls but the next three men were easy outs, retiring the side. Rockford secured five hits off the delivery of Manager Hawley. They were all scattered and but twice did it look any way near disastrous. On these occasions Pink cooled down and retired the side without any difficulty.

In the fifth inning they came the closest to scoring. Hickey swatted the ball to Eberly, who made a wild heave to Tracey and allowed Hickey to register at second, but the next players went down in easy form and the danger was over. Kaphan was the only man to find Pink easily and he got three of the five hits. But when he did get to the initial sack he died there for want of assistance from his teammates.

The patched up team showed that they were there when it came to slugging the ball. Eleven hits is not a poor record.

Eberly played in the place of Bond and had one error out of six chances. He stopped the ball all right, but got his error on a poor peg.

It is rather monotonous to see the Reds raise such an awful howl after every play, and they got so in the habit of doing so that if the umpire did give a good decision they would chirp in.

Hawley was there at all times. He had two chances in the field, accepting both in fine form. At bat he had one sacrifice, twice he got to first on passes and again on a fielder's choice.

Dumbrosky went in again after Rogers had been benched. He proved just as easy as before.

Hickey, another Chicago league recruit, joined the Reds yesterday and played second base. He accepted six chances without an error.

Graves was the only man on the team unable to fatten his batting average yesterday.

Six strike-outs was Pink's average yesterday.

THE SACK O' THE ISLE O' MAN

They sailed away for the Isle o' Man
In the dawn of a darling day;
And the tars they laughed
And the captains quaffed,
And life was a frolic gay.

And they laughed, "Ho-ho! and they chortled so!
"We'll sack the Isle!" quote they.
But they only dined,
And fished and wined,
For the king, he bade them stay.

When the moon shone white in the dead o' night,
In terror they slipped away.
"We better had,
For the king is mad,
And he'll sack us if we stay!"

And O! they sailed and their hearts
they quailed,
And a spell on the engines fell,
And devil a boat
Would sail or float.
And the crew behaved like—well,
They were taken in tow in an hour or so,

And their slow retreat began,
And the sailors slept,
And the captains wept
O'er the sack o' the Isle o' Man.

They chortled gaily over the discomfiture of John Racheleman's expedition against the Isle o' Man. "Ho, ho! my hearties. We'll have the Fallstaff Franties, the mayor of Georgetown, drawn and quartered and lay his carcass at the feet of the rotund and smiling viking, Oscar, Ander's son. "Aye, aye, sh!"
chortled the rollicking crew.

MR. WELLMAN'S VIEW.

Not the least interesting feature of the present presidential campaign is the attitude assumed by the general public, as a result of the campaign of education that has been carried on in the past half dozen or more years by such men as La Follette, Roosevelt and Bryan, by such writers as Charles Edward Russell, Lincoln Steffens, Ida M. Tarbell, Thos. W. Lawson and William Allen White.

As a result of this new education the United States no longer has a boss-ridden people. The time is past when some great index finger can point at a man and call him a "demagogue," whereon the citizens turn from him in fear and burn him at the stake of public prejudice. People now do their own thinking, and the more they think the less they are given to bitterness, and the more they act on logical conclusions, rather than on bias.

A fine illustration of this fact is offered in a recent New York letter written by Walter Wellman for the Chicago Record-Herald. Incidentally, the proposition stated above is well illustrated by the fact that the Record-Herald, a republican paper, is fair enough to publish such a letter, and that Mr. Wellman, himself known as a republican, is broad enough to write it. The letter follows:

"We are proceeding on the theory that we have a hard fight before us, that there is danger of Taft's defeat, and that we must work hard to make sure of winning."

"This is the principle upon which Chairman Hitchcock is planning his campaign. He is not making the mistake of underestimating his foe. He is not like Wall Street, living in a fool's paradise. He knows he is a battle before him, and he is getting ready for it. He does not intend to be guilty of that most egregious of blunders, overconfidence. In the end he expects to win. But he is going to work just as if he feared defeat."

"Mr. Hitchcock has told Judge Taft and Charles P. Taft, and tomorrow will tell President Roosevelt, that in his judgment this presidential campaign is to be no easy thing—no walkaway. There are both signs of strength and of weakness, and as yet there is no assurance as to which is to turn out the stronger factor."

"In my opinion Mr. Hitchcock is a wise young man to plan his work just as if he feared it was to be a desperate case. It may or may not prove to be desperate. It is too early to tell. But having the opportunity to talk with men from all parts of the country, I offer a suggestion as to the trend of public opinion. Almost every man I talk with, be he democrat or republican, admits Bryan is stronger than he was ever before. Almost every one comments on the fact that few men are not afraid of Bryan. In this one factor alone he has made progress enough to give him at least the right to hope. When he ran for president in 1896 and 1900 a very large part of the country, I offer a very suggestive man. He was regarded as a revolutionary, almost a socialist, and by some was classed as an anarchist. Level-headed, sincere men believed implicitly that if Bryan were to get into the White House the country would quickly go to the devil.

"It is now almost universally admitted that this fear has passed. Most no one now regards Bryan as an actual menace. A few may do so as a matter of habit, but many. In other words, what Bryan has achieved or time and circumstances and the work of others he achieved for him, is that he has been admitted by the country into the presidential class. He is not denounced as unfit to be president as beyond the pale, as an adventurer or upstart. He has won his place in the American nation as a man of brains and character and good standing. He is no longer an outsider. He is now to be judged on merits, on his promises, principles and method, just as Mr. Taft or another man is judged."

"When he ran before a large part of that nation condemned him in advance. His name was anathematized. He was the political black sheep whom no pure, white wool could possibly be expected. Now, by a very few, the most extreme narrow, so look upon him. In judgment this change of the public opinion of view is one of the greatest psychological factors in the campaign, and I find most men thinking and speaking of the same thing."

"Of course, this is not to be taken as meaning that there no longer exists a large section of the American people who believe Taft much better fitted in every way for the presidency than Bryan, and who also believe that the action of Bryan would be a bad thing for the country and for its prosperity. There is such a class, and very large one; nor are all of the republicans, either. The feeling among business men is still very strong in some way or other the success of Bryan would be bad for business. Not a few democrats will vote for Taft on this line of reasoning."

"But the position to Bryan placed on this and has nothing sinister about it. It is not a violent, unreasoning position, as in former campaigns. To one very much excited about the great majority of men who are against Bryan on this score, he may be regarded as the modified and tempered traditional view, and Bryan's triumph would not be likely to spell disaster or ruin. This does not lift their hands in horror at the mention of his name, as he did in 1896 and 1900. They still believe they have good reason for preferring the other man and favoring a little more confidence in him."

"From all parts of the country comes the opinion that this is not going to be a very bitter or exciting campaign. It may close. I have good reason for believing that in a few weeks the republicans will have a scare on. That they will suddenly become alarmed over the progress Bryan is making and will not be able to conceal their anxiety. Already there are signs of the coming of such a scare. As it has reached its climax the republicans will gradually begin feeling better, and by October will have recovered their normal composure and confidence. On account of the fact which is likely soon to gain currency that Bryan has a fair chance after all, the masses are sure to take up and show genuine interest in the campaign."

"But all the travelers and observers with whom I have talked agree that at no time is there likely to be anything like the bitterness, the depth of feeling or the hysteria and fright we have seen in former presidential struggles. The progress Bryan has made from a dangerous outsider into the class with the best of our public men of thought, action and leadership is one large contributing cause of this national serenity."

TAFT IS BLAMELESS.

It is doubtless true that it was with the consent of President Roosevelt, that on behalf of Judge Taft, Gen. Corbin made public a dispatch from the president showing conclusively that it was he, not Taft, who dismissed the negro participants in the Brownsville affair. Corbin, who is retired, was doubtless selected as a good channel through which to give the matter publicity, in order to avoid the official stamp and the apparent violation of official etiquette that would have resulted had the revelation come through the officer in active service. In other words, Gen. Corbin is the Teddy goat, with the knowledge and consent of Roosevelt.

Had this thing been engineered by Taft without the approval of the president, the affair would stamp the candidate as faithless to his creator. However, there is not the slightest ground for such a presumption. And as to the merits of the matter, were it not for Judge Taft's natural and human desire to save the republican negro vote for himself there would be no use of mentioning it. There is little room to doubt that the impetuous president jumped at the right conclusion, in which

CARL OLSON TOMORROW.

The management of the La Crosse theatre take pride in announcing the appearance of "A Prince of Sweden," which will be in our city matinee and night Sunday, Aug. 9.

This is one of the best Scandinavian dialect comedies on the road and the success of this attraction is attributed to the fact that the management believes in honest methods. They believe in giving the patrons their money's worth and therefore are always sure of a full house whenever billed to appear. This season the management spared no time or expense in surpassing all previous attempts and according to the press comments have succeeded. The specialties are all A No. 1 and a packed house is anticipated. Advance sale is on at the theatre candy store.

case Taft has deprived himself of an honor rather than evaded a calumny.

LUCKY BRYAN.

Mr. Bryan is nothing, if not lucky. Judge Grosscup came to his assistance with the reversal of the Standard Oil decision; a federal judge inopportunely proceeded with the case against Gompers for disregarding a labor injunction; railroad strikes on one hand and threatened increases in railroad rates on the other contributed to the strength of his position.

Now come the railroads with their offering on his behalf. They made a special rate for pilgrims to the Taft notification ceremonies; they decline to make such rate reduction for the Bryan notification.

Judge Taft is not at fault; it is just Bryan's luck. But that people will say the railroads are for Taft and against Bryan, is inevitable. And whatever may be the fact of circumstance seems to indicate that the corporations are, for some reason, more friendly to the Ohioan, or at least, less friendly to Bryan.

MANNERS EAST AND WEST.

(St. Paul Dispatch.)

Let us have no comparisons of east and west in social amenities. We will admit that none of us is perfect in politeness of speech or action, and the same thing is true of every locality or region in a measurable degree. We can join with the better class of eastern people, those who hold to the true rule of social intercourse, not to offend wantonly or needlessly the feelings of any person, that there are some Americans whom it is no libel to call bores. They are well provided with money and most of them live on or about Manhattan Island when they are at home. A good part of the time they are abroad and they bring shame upon the great mass of us by creating the impression that all Americans are of their type, fond of vulgar display and noise, in voice, dress and actions.

JAPAN PREFERS PROSPERITY.

As a matter of fact, the only expedition which Japan is to keep up, under the Marquis Katsura as premier, will be to maintain the army and navy which Japan now has. As for attempting to rival the navies of Great Britain or the United States, the public sentiment of Japan will not tolerate the idea. The people have had more than enough of military glory. They want peace and they will have peace. And they are shrewd enough to see that military glory and prosperity cannot both be had at the same time. They prefer prosperity.

Customer (in an ironmonger's shop)—"Show me a small, low-priced shears." Salesman (facetiously)—"Perhaps you mean a pair of shears?" Customer (severely)—"I mean precisely what I said." Salesman (defiantly, opening a specimen article)—"Are there not two blades here, and don't you make a pair?" Customer (triumphantly)—"You have two legs; does that make you a pair of men?" The shears were done up in profound silence.

A man is hardly ever prouder of anything than when he sat in the same smoking room of a sleeping car with some politician and told him what time it was.

Justice Brewer, of the supreme court, on circuit, was once taking testimony in an Ohio court.

One of the witnesses called to the stand gave his name as J. Curtis Greene. Mr. Greene's condescending manner did not appeal to the court's sense of the fitness of things. Finally Judge Brewer's patience being sorely tried, he asked:

"What did you say your name was?"

"J. Curtis Greene with an 'e,'" replied the witness.

"What does the 'J' stand for?" was the next question.

"Julius."

—Lipincott's.

With a swift divination Vida caught the reason of his silence.

"But, I suppose, you are like the rest. You only speak when Mr. Morris gives you permission and instructs you what to say. You are not a bit our old Phil at all, the boy who used to stay behind after all the Healthy Family had taken wing, just to eat tea-cakes and currant-buns with two girls. You had better go over to the Valley Manse and ask your master if it is right for you to be here at all in broad daylight, and unprotected."

"Mr. Morris," Phil answered stiffly, "has nothing to do with my actions after hours of work are over."

"So!" said Vida, mockingly, "my compliments!"

Something like a flash of summer lightning glimmered in the eyes of Phil Calmont—just glittered like a drawn sword and was gone. Vida, quick to notice differences of mood, felt the masculine harshness overpower the sympathetic and feminine in Phil. She could not say that she liked him less with that danger signal in his eyes. Even the possibilities of it were interesting. But at any rate he put her on her guard. She was at pains to lead the conversation steadily back into its old safe channel.

"Mr. Morris," she said, with a quite false submissiveness, at once noted by Phil, "is a truly remarkable man—I felt as much from the first."

Somehow this made Phil indignant—all the more so that he quite realized the hopelessness of his own love for the girl beside him. He was glad to find her untouched by Vic Morris' strenuous manfulness. Yet somehow he felt indignant, too. He resented it as a slight on his chief, as a loyal servant feels a slur on the good name of his firm.

"Ludovic Morris is indeed a great man," said Phil, with emphasis, "greater and better than you or me—or any of us!"

Vida laughed a little mockingly.

"I daresay he finds us a little tedious sometimes!"

Instantly, by feminine insight, Phil understood her innuendo, and with an equally feminine parallelism, he answered, "He is not tedious. It is only we who cannot understand him—rise to his level!"

Vida breathed a long unmistakable sigh.

"I am glad to hear you say 'we,'" she cried; "it sounds just like old times! Before the days of logarithms, I mean, when you still wrote sonnets. I have quite a pile of them, do you know? I wonder what they will fetch when you are the greatest engineer on earth, decorated and peeraged, no doubt, and I an old woman doddering on a stick from garret to cellar. I daresay you will give me something handsome for them then—at least enough to keep the wolf from the door, and assure my pussy his daily skewer from the cat's meat man."

Now at this very time Phil had other sonnets in his pocket. He could feel the paper cracking (they were all written on thick Venetian handmade paper, tinted with the local sunsets) but he dared not produce them in the face of the railway with which they would have been greeted.

"That is, I believe, what they call 'blackmail,'" she went on. "I have read about it in the papers. The only cure is for you to become too rich or too celebrated."

"What in the world are you two quarrelling about?" called out little Miss Nunsby, coming across the lawn. "Why, you are frightening the cows in the Doctor's field, and in the hedge about a blackbird is scolding his mate out of sheer sympathy. You ought, even in your evil tempers, to consider the happiness of the lower animals—poor dumb things!"

"They are not dumb, that is just the trouble," said Vida; "it is Phil who has become dumb. I was only pointing out the evil influence of Mr. Morris over him. Why, in the old days, he used to chatter like a jackdaw when he came here. But now—" (she sighed with palpable affection) "he considers the talk of girls like us mere foolishness, compared to 'Weale on Ashlar Work' and the merits of Hall's Distemper. I believe he will catch it before all is done!"

"Catch what, madcap?" said little Miss Nunsby.

"Hall's distemper—what that may be serious, you know. For on the advertisement up at the Station it says that water has no effect upon it! So be careful, Phil. You must never get dirty, lest you have to stay like that always!"

This was just the kind of cheerful nonsense in which Phil would have revelled a few weeks ago. But the iron that Vic Morris had put into the young man's blood, during the past months, was slowly making him like other men. It was extremely silly, of course. Vida was talking the most utter rubbish, and knew it. But she knew also that between two people who are or may be fond of each other, the greatest thing is to talk—it matters little about what. And all the time, because only the mannerless person or the dullard can look away, eyes speak to eyes. Little winged loves float to and fro invisible. The pulses catch the cosmic heat and tick in unison, and the tides of earth magnetism make the two a part of the great Mother.

Half an hour afterwards, pursued by the wistful eyes of little Miss Nunsby, Phil and Vida walked homeward together.

It was curious how utterly and instantly persiflage dropped away as they took the long woodland curves which brought them round the base

SYRIAN'S "PILL" CAUSES A BLAZE

BARN OPPOSITE FIRE STATION IS BURNED TODAY

HORSE IS BADLY SCORCHED

Animal Will Probably Recover as the Burns Can Be Treated Locally

A fire in a barn belonging to George Sadie caused considerable excitement on the North side this morning about 10:30.

The barn is directly across the street from fire station No. 2, but the blaze spread with such rapidity that the roof was nearly burned off before it was extinguished.

The fire started from a cigarette that was dropped by one of the Syrians who had been attending the horse a few minutes before and the loose straw in the stall caught fire in a second. The horse was quite badly burned, but it is thought that he will not have to be shot, as the burns are on the head and neck. The loss was about $50.

The stringing of the fire hose across the track stopped the street cars for nearly half an hour, considerably delaying the traffic. The fire was rung out about 10:50 and the cars again resumed their regular schedule.

SPECIAL TRAIN OF EAGLES HERE

A party made up of the members of the Chicago Fraternal Order of Eagles and their families passed through here on a Burlington special yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. The train stopped at Grand Crossing for a change of engines and train crews and to give the passengers a glimpse of Mississippi valley scenery.

Nearly 1,000 people were in the party, on the way to Seattle to attend the national convention of the order, which opens August 9.

ENGINE KEEPS UP DIN 3 HOURS

A broken whistle on a freight engine aroused considerable curiosity early this morning and a number of stories were circulated, each varying to suit the imagination of the teller. The fact of the matter was that the whistle on a freight engine became stuck on the railroad bridge and refused to stop working. It was necessary to bring the engine back to the roundhouse, where it was found the round house was full and it was necessary to keep up steam in order to get it into the house, so the whistle screamed incessantly for nearly three hours before it was finally repaired.

GROCERS' PICNIC SEASON'S EVENT

ALL IS READY FOR BIG TRIP NEXT WEDNESDAY

WILL RUN TWO EXCURSIONS

Monster Crowd Will Be Taken to Dakota Park on the Rutledge for a Fine Outing

All of the arrangements have been completed and everything is in readiness for the big picnic to be given at Dakota park next Wednesday by the La Crosse Retail Grocers' association. These picnics, which have become annual affairs, are perhaps the biggest outing of the season from La Crosse, and monster crowds are expected to attend.

The boat will leave the levee for Dakota park at 9:30 for the first trip and it is expected it will be loaded to its capacity. The boat will not be overloaded, however, as the government regulation allows only a certain number. Most of the people who can get away in the morning, however, will undoubtedly take the early boat. The second trip will be made at 12:45. All of the stores will be closed Wednesday afternoon and the clerks will take advantage of the afternoon trip to go to the grounds.

An excellent program has been arranged, and there will be many entertaining features, including athletic events and speeches. James B. Murray, president of the association, will make an address and is in charge of this feature of the program, there being several other orators on the program.

Secretary Harry Taggart, who has worked hard for the success of the event, is now assured his efforts will be crowned with success, as it is evident that both trips will carry a record crowd to the grounds. Mr. Taggart today is having the tickets and badges, which will be furnished the excursionists, printed, and when the boat is ready to leave Wednesday, it will be for one of the most enjoyable outings ever held.

The Harvest Fields of the Northwest
Grow the richest barley crop in the world, and barley, remember, is a substantial food—a standard cereal (like wheat and oats and rye). It is the foundation and back bone of

Gund's Peerless Beer

Pure, natural juices of the barley and hops are combined by the famous "Gund Natural Process" into a fermented malt beer, whose fine fragrance and rich strengthening food qualities won for it the diploma of highest excellence at Paris, 1900, and for commanding superiority at St. Louis Exposition, 1904.

"Beer is liquid bread." This is an ancient German saying and is true in the most literal sense of "Peerless." Try it and see. It will quench your thirst, give you strength, promote digestion, satisfy your palate and enrich your blood. Sparkling, wholesome, snappy and delicious.

Bottled at brewery only. Sold everywhere. A favorite home beer. Send in a trial order for a case delivered at your door. Telephone, write or call. Ask for it at places of public resort if you want something better than common brews.

COMPLETE RULING OF STATE COMMISSION ON GAS STANDARDS

The complete ruling of the Wisconsin rate commission on conduct of gas and electric service throughout the state, the text of which was recently published in the Tribune, follows:

Rule 1. A meter may be considered as correct if, when passing gas at the rate of six cubic feet per hour per light capacity, it shows, in comparison with a standard gas prover, an error which is not greater than 2 per cent.

Check Once in Three Years.
Rule 2. No gas company shall allow a gas meter to remain in service for a period longer than three years without checking it for accuracy and readjusting it if found to be inaccurate.

Rule 3. Each company shall keep a record of tests made on meters before installation and upon receiving them from the service.

Rule 4. Each gas company shall provide itself with equipment necessary for testing meters, such equipment to consist of a standard meter prover with suitable accessories.

Rule 5. Each gas company shall make a test of the accuracy of a meter upon request of a consumer, provided such consumer does not make a request for test more frequently than once in six months. A report giving the results of such test shall be made to the consumer, and a complete record of such tests shall be kept on file in the office of the company.

Rule 6. Upon formal application of any consumer to the railroad commission a test shall be made upon the consumer's meter by an inspector employed by the railroad commission, such test to be made as soon as practicable after receipt of the application. For each test a fee of two dollars ($2.00) shall be paid by the consumer making application for the test if the meter is found to be slow or correct within the allowable limits, and by the company owning the meter if the meter is found to be fast beyond the allowable limit.

Rule 7. Meter dials shall read directly in cubic feet of gas, and bill rendered periodically by the company shall designate the readings of the meter at the beginning and end of the time for which the bill is rendered, and give the dates at which the readings were taken.

Rule 8. The company furnishes gas which, within a one mile radius from the distribution center, gives a monthly average total heating value of not less than 600 B. T. U., with a minimum which shall not fall below 550 B. T. U., may be considered as giving adequate service as far as the heating value of the gas is concerned.

Rule 9. Each gas company, whose output exceeds twenty million cubic feet a year, shall equip itself with a standard calorimeter outfit, with which periodic tests upon the gas shall be made. A record of these tests shall be made and kept open for public inspection.

Rule 10. Gas pressure, as measured at meter inlets, shall never be less than 1 1/2 inches nor more than 6 inches of water pressure at the inlet of any one meter on the system shall never be greater than 100 per cent of the minimum pressure.

Rule 11. Each company shall make frequent measurements of the pressure variations, and these shall be kept on record and open for public inspection.

Rule 12. In no case shall the gas contain more than thirty grains of total sulphur per 100 cubic feet, and not more than a trace of sulphur as sulphuretted hydrogen.

Rule 13. Each company shall keep a record of complaints which shall include the name and address of the consumer, the date, the nature of the complaint and the remedy. A classified summary of these records shall be submitted to the commission on or before the twenty-eighth day of each month for the preceding month.

Rule 14. No electric meter which registers upon "no load" shall be placed in service or allowed to remain in service.

Four Per Cent Error Allowed.
Rule 15. No electric meter shall be placed in service or allowed to remain in service which has an error of registration in excess of 4 per cent on light load, half load, or full load.

Rule 16. Each electric meter shall be tested and adjusted for accuracy at the time of its installation.

Rule 17. Each electric service meter shall be tested at least once each year; the test to be made by comparing the meter while connected in its place of service with suitable standards, on light load, half load, and full load rate of operation.

Rule 18. A complete record shall be kept of all tests made on electric meters.

Rule 19. Each company supplying electrical energy shall make a test of the accuracy of a meter upon request of a consumer, provided such consumer does not make request for tests more frequently than once in six months. A report giving the results of such tests shall be made to the consumer, and a complete ord of the same shall be kept on file in the office of the company.

Rule 21. Upon formal application of any consumer to the railroad commission, a test shall be made upon the consumer's meter by an inspector employed by the railroad commission, such test to be made as soon as practicable after the receipt of the application. For such a test a fee of two dollars ($2.00) shall be paid by the consumer making application for the test if the meter is found to be slow or correct within the allowable limit, and by the company owning the meter if the meter is found to be fast beyond the allowable limit.

Rule 22. Each company supplying electrical energy shall maintain a record of all interruptions of service upon the entire system, and include in such record, time, duration and cause of each interruption.

Rule 23. Each company supplying electrical energy on constant potential systems shall adopt and maintain a standard average value of voltage as measured at any consumer's cut out, which shall remain constant from day to day, and vary during any one day by amount not more than 6 per cent of the minimum value.

Rule 24. Each company supplying electrical energy for incandescent illumination shall adopt and maintain some method of procedure which will insure periodic inspection of incandescent lamps to which current is supplied and under which the company will render its consumers assistance in securing incandescent cent lamps best adapted to the operations of the system. Each company shall submit to the railroad commission of Wisconsin the details of such method of procedure as it may adopt.

Rule 25. Each company supplying electrical energy for incandescent illumination shall specifically inform each of its consumers as to the conditions under which efficient illuminating service may be secured from its system.

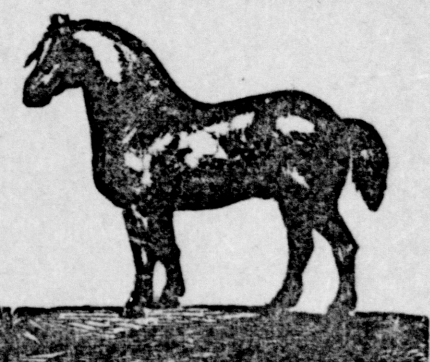

The rules are issued in pamphlet form and are discussed at length by the commission.

WILL LEVY ON GUARANTEE FUND

A meeting will be held this afternoon of the finance committee of the Saengerfest association, when the final financial matters will be taken up. The remaining bills will be brought up and the exact financial standing of the association determined.

At present the exact deficit caused by the Saengerfest is not known, but it is practically certain that there will have to be an assessment levied on the guarantee fund. "We do not know how much the deficit will be," said President Doerflinger this morning, "but it is certain that the guarantee fund will have to be taxed. At the meeting this afternoon the final matters will be settled and some plan decided upon for the raising of the deficit."

CITY NEWS

REFUSE BURNS.—Fire department o. 1 was called out last evening to extinguish a fire in a pile of refuse behind the Woodward Supply company's store about 9 o'clock. Although the fire was not a serious one, to have let it burn would have endangered the adjoining buildings. The fire was first discovered by I. G. Loomis who rang in the alarm.

TWO BOUND OVER ON PERJURY CHARGE

Miss Mamie Cornell and Louis Kohlitz, two residents of St. Joseph's Ridge, were bound over to the circuit court under $500 bonds, each by Judge Brindley yesterday afternoon on a perjury charge.

The case is the outgrowth of an action taken in Judge Kleiber's court some time ago in which Mrs. Lena Richter sued her brother, Louis Kohlitz for $28 which she claims she has coming for services as his housekeeper. It is claimed that in this trial, Mamie Kohlitz testified that she had seen Kohlitz pay his sister the full amount while Mrs. Richter testified that she was paid only $40 and still had $28 due her. Mrs. Richter lost the suit and laid the case before District Attorney Bosshard who commenced action in the case for perjury.

Although the testimony taken before Judge Brindley in the county court yesterday was conflicting the opinion of the court was that the defendants be bound over to the circuit court. The judge said in his decision that it was time some regard was taken for truth by witnesses in the various courts, a general statement which did not apply to any case in particular.

THE FORD

FOR SERVICE.

Model "S" Roadster, 4-cylinder, 15 H. P., $750... Other models for $600 to $2,800.

If you buy a car for what it will do—not what the salesman says about it—you buy the Ford, for by actual use 20,000 cars have proven that the Ford will cover more miles for less money than any other car, even at a considerably higher price.

Twenty-five to 35 miles per gallon of gasoline, 5,000 to 15,000 miles per set of tires, repairs less than $5.00 per year; that's what the user says.

First cost lowest, maintenance cost lowest, efficiency highest; that's why they call the Ford a quality car.

THE FORD A QUALITY CAR

world, Henry Ford, and are manufactured in a factory having the finest equipment possible to secure for turning out fine work. Without considering price, no car is better built than the Ford, nor will prove longer lived, more dependable or as cheap to run.

That the price is lower is the result of quantity production and sale—manufactured at the minimum cost on account of the enormous number—sold with a minimum profit per car because of the vast number of sales.

You really get a $1,500 car for half the price, if the other fellow's price is considered. A four-cylinder 15 H. P. Runabout for $600; another for $700; a Roadster for $750; Touring Car, $850; Touring Car or Roadster for $2,800; gives a car for every pocketbook, each the value of any car at double its price.

ILLINOIS BATTLE FOR VOTES TODAY

YATES AND DENEEN ARE THE LEADING WARRIORS

BIG EARLY VOTE IS OUT

Stevenson Is Said to Have the Support of Bryan for Democratic Gubernatorial Nomination

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The first direct primary in the history of Illinois is being held all over the state today. Candidates from governor to constable are being voted for. The weather conditions are perfect and a heavy vote is expected.

The polls opened at Chicago at 6 o'clock and a good early vote was cast. Chief interest centers in the struggle between Governor Charles S. Deneen and former Governor Richard Yates, for the republican nomination for governor. Both have carried on a bitter campaign replete with personalities and charges of various kinds. Both candidates have expressed confidence of victory.

Former vice president Stevenson, having the backing of Bryan, is touted as winner of the democratic gubernatorial handicap. J. Hamilton Lewis of pink whiskers' fame, John McGorty and Douglas Pattison are his opponents. Senator Albert J. Hopkins is standing for re-nomination and is opposed by ex-Senator William Mason and Congressman George Ross.

preferred stock. The company has $32,000 pounds of first mortgage 6 per cent debenture bonds falling due in 1939.

Chicago Wheat Slump.
CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—The wheat market was staggered today by the announcement of the receivership of the Pillsbury Washburn Co. It tended to shake confidence and a wild rush was made to sell, the longs unloading in great quantities. September and December wheat slumped badly, December falling off a cent and September nearly two cents. Selling in oats was in sympathy with the wheat slump.

The receivers this afternoon stated that they did not believe there is anything seriously wrong with the company's affairs and it is believed it will be quickly adjusted.

McGOVERN SPEAKS HERE AUG. 18TH

Francis E. McGovern's campaign managers have taken time by the forelock and have the first call on the big La Crosse auditorium, built for the meeting of the Northwestern Saengerfest, for a political meeting. Mr. McGovern will speak there on the evening of Tuesday August 18. A band will be on hand and there is a possibility that some well known Milwaukee speakers will be present to share the time with the candidate.

Mr. McGovern will leave Milwaukee and will speak at Baraboo on Monday forenoon and at Reedsburg in the evening. He will speak in Elroy Tuesday morning, arriving in La Crosse at 5:30 in the afternoon. The auditorium will hold 6,000 people. On his return from La Crosse Mr. McGovern will speak in the cities of the lake shore counties and will then go up through Shawano county as far north as Antigo.

REDMEN TO VOTE ON SALOON KEEPERS

Among the important work to be taken up at the convention of the Redmen lodge in the city next week will be on the law recently passed by the Grand Council of the Redmen in the United States abolishing saloon keepers from membership. If the law is accepted at the state meeting next week in the future no saloon keepers will be admitted to the lodge.

The degree team of the local lodge will hold a special meeting Monday evening to practice for the coming convention.

Next Thursday evening a delegation from the local lodge will attend the Minnesota state convention of Redmen at Winona and while there will extend an invitation to the grand council to attend the convention here.

JEALOUS HUSBAND SLAYS HIS RIVAL

COFFEYVILLE, Kans., Aug. 8.—William Hill, a prominent farmer living near here, today shot and instantly killed David Alexander, a neighbor, claiming the latter had ruined his home. The tragedy was enacted in the presence of Hill's wife, from whom he had been estranged for several months.

While guarding a watermelon patch with a shotgun against thieves Hill saw Alexander and his wife ride by in a buggy, and infuriated at the sight, he made a dash for the couple. Alexander, noticing his approach, leaped from the buggy and ran. Hill, pursuing, was 400 yards behind when the fatal shot was fired. Hill surrendered.

COUNT ZEPPELIN HAS GRASP ON AERIAL NAVIGATION

align for repairs early in the voyage.

Again, the airship broke away from its moorings at Stuttgart and took fire, destroying it completely. But compared with the phenomenal success of its demonstration these are only incidents which show the imperfection of a great inventor.

Count Zeppelin has made the balloon type of airships a life study. He is now well along in years and may never live to see the fruits of his own invention perfected, but it is doubtful if any one has done more in the development of this phase of air navigation than the count. His type is similar to that used by Santos Dumont and others, but he has gone at it on an enlarged scale. His airship is able to carry between five and 10 passengers, and so easily maintains its equilibrium that they can walk around on its decks as on a steamer.

This phase of airship differs radically from the heavier than air type, which depends for its support upon plumes driven at a high speed through the air. While the others are much less perfected and in fact scarcely demonstrated as yet to be successful, it is thought they will eventually be the mode of flying, for they are less subject to winds than the bulky balloons. So far only a few hundred yards have been attained by any heavier than air flying machine, and the frequency of mishaps and accidents has shown their inefficiency.

It is not generally known that Count Zeppelin is a veteran of the Grand Army of the Republic. He served through the civil war as a cavalry officer in the army of the Mississippi in the brigade commanded by Gen. Carl Schurz.

At the battle of Fredericksburg the young German cavalryman owes his escape from capture to a brilliant feat of horsemanship, which carried him through the line of bayonets with which he had been encircled.

It is said that it was in the union service that the count made his first balloon ascension, which created his interest in aeronautics. It was in a captive balloon sent up to observe the confederate lines.

The count was successful and became enthusiastic over the possibilities of balloons for military service. Count Zeppelin has demonstrated, regardless of his unfortunate mishaps, the practicability of the balloon type for war purposes, if not for passenger use, and it is a foregone conclusion that in the next war airships will play a considerable part.

BANK GUARANTEE? WILL LOSE CHARTERS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.—Acting Comptroller of the Currency Kane officially notified all the national banks of Oklahoma of the opinion rendered by Bonaparte that it is illegal for the officials of any national bank to enter into an agreement relative to guaranteeing deposits and that persistent refusal to act to this effect on the part of any bank will be just cause for the forfeiture of its charter. All banks which have taken advantage of the law are required to withdraw from the agreement and to notify the comptroller's office that they have done so.

BOB LA FOLLETTE IS INSURGENT LEADER

mix well. They represented the opposite factions in the state, Spooner a stalwart, La Follette a half-breed. Spooner, rather than make a race for re-election with La Follette certain to fight him, resigned his seat, and permitted Isaac Stephenson, a millionaire lumberman, to be sent for the short term to the senate. Stephenson had been the friend of La Follette and La Follette supporters in the legislature made him senator. But after he had taken his seat he began presently to affiliate with the conservative crowd; it was charged that he constantly indulged in vicious and insulting remarks about La Follette; he didn't vote with La Follette except rarely; and in short, a breach developed which led to open rupture. Now, Stephenson is out as a candidate for re-election, and La Follette is opposed to him. It is set down as reasonably certain that, whoever may be elected, he will not be Stephenson. La Follette's hold on Wisconsin is too good for that.

The Battleship Fight.

During the last session La Follette began to gather about him a few younger republican senators, a nucleus of organization for the future. Borah of Idaho and Brown of Nebraska were pretty consistently with him; Burkett was at times, but commonly for political reasons relating to the sentiment of his home state, rather than from liking for La Follette, whom he doesn't like. For precisely similar reasons Doolittle at times supported La Follette propositions. Then came the big fight for the four battleship proposition. Beveridge was the leader of the younger and independent element this time. He organized a fine fight, and although he did not succeed in forcing the senate to grant the president's demand for four Dreadnaughts, he did go so far as to make insurrection respectable, and insurgency an established and significant fact. That battleship fight showed the determination of the younger element hereafter to insist on its opinions even though they might interfere with the designs of the traditional elder statesmen.

Union Not Ago.

It is not quite accurate to refer to the insurgent senators as the "younger group," though in the main they are thus accurately described. But the line of division is not age; it relates to views on public questions. The insurgents are the men who believe the legislative program has progressed too slowly; who would much more rapidly extend the government's controlling power over corporations and especially over interstate commerce; who indorse and accept in general the Roosevelt policies, and in the main the Bryan program. Some of them go with Bryan to the extent of favoring insurance of bank deposits; notably Brown and Borah. They are arrayed against the ancient Aldrich-Hale-Gallinger-Burrows-Parkinson-Warren regime, which assumed to dominate the senate, and for many years has succeeded. These men are the conservatives. They oppose the radicals, or whatever it is, of the Roosevelt policies.

Democrats With Them.

Affiliated with the republican progressives have always been a good share of the democratic strength in the senate; and with the republican conservatives, on the other hand, a considerable group of the old-fashioned elder democrats have allied themselves; men like Daniel, Teller and others of that school of democracy.

Controlled Committees.

The elder statesmen—and the term is now used to include the veteran conservatives of both parties—have held their power by reason of dominating the great committees. Senator Allison as chairman of the republican caucus was the real apex of the scheme. It was he who named the republican committee on committees. This committee was entrusted with making up the senate committee assignments, and this list was always arranged to give the conservative elders and their close associates complete control of the big and powerful committees. Controlling these, they gave the others—the great majority, incidentally—of the senators, such assignments of less important committees as could be passed out to them. But such committees as finance, appropriations, judiciary, military affairs, naval affairs and the like, were carefully kept within control of the "senate family," as the veteran group was and is called.

Control of the committees meant everything. There legislation is made up. There the recalcitrant independent is punished; his "little bill" is sidetracked, emasculated or pigeon-holed. It may be of great local or sentimental concern to him, but that is unimportant. If he is in bad odor, he gets the axe. It is a discouraging game for an ambitious young statesman to experience.

Bob's Insurrection.

It was La Follette who first, deciding that he could struggle along without any consideration at the hands of the elders, cut loose and accepted the fate without murmur. Patronage was used against him. Nominations were held up, when he was interested in them. His colleague, Spooner, was one of the insiders of the old organization; La Follette, because he had had the temerity to oppose Spooner must be crushed. The only difficulty was that he didn't crush. He got the floor from time to time and said what he thought; he went on the platform, when congress was not in session, and told his troubles to the country. He has been getting returns—and scalps.

As a result of all these things, the progressives are going to be stronger in the next session, and in the next congress especially, than ever before. Their numbers will be vastly greater, and their courage augmented. Allison is gone, and he it was who with the master hand of a true diplomat for many years used regularly to smooth out differences and adjust matters; always in the inter-

GEORGE HARMS TO TRY WITH TEAM

BROTHER OF INJURED PLAYER HERE FROM MICHIGAN

ATTENDANCE AGAIN IS SLOW

Only 181 Paid Admissions Yesterday Indicating Limit of 25,000 Won't Be Reached

George Harms, brother of Jerry Harms, who was injured in the Rockford game Thursday, arrived last evening from his home in Detroit, Mich., and will don a La Crosse uniform this afternoon and be given a try-out at the second sack until Bond recovers.

George Harms has been playing with the Central league and has been making a good showing. He may be kept with La Crosse during the remainder of the season. He started the season with Green Bay, but was later released. He plays the infield and is said to be exceptionally good at bat.

Jerry Harms resting easier today at the hospital, but will not be able to play with the team for a couple of weeks. An examination yesterday showed that he was not internally injured, having only a broken nose. Bond is considerably improved today and will probably get into the game again next week.

Yesterday was ladies' day at the park and but for this the showing in the grand stand would have been terrible. There were 181 paid admissions, an increase of one over the previous day.

At present it looks very doubtful for league ball here next season. Unless the fans take a sudden jump and show better attendance at the games the Wisconsin-Illinois league will make an exit from this section.

Watson will work in today's game and Eberly or Jones tomorrow. Converse and Huber will be the opposing pitchers.

A double header will be played with the Indians Monday. The postponed game is from June 23, when the game was called in the eighth inning on account of a tie and rain.

BOY CHAINED FOR OVER 24 HOURS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 8.—Curled up on a cot in a heap of rags in a narrow, cell-like room his right ankle manacled and chained to the floor, Joe Sepin, aged 9, was found a prisoner in his own father's home in the basement flat at 419 Vliet street, by Patrolman Carpenter. The boy had been held in chains for over 24 hours.

He had fallen asleep from exhaustion and hunger and he cried with joy when his parents were ordered by officers to release him.

Patrolman Carpenter had missed the boy during the day. He went up to a window last at night and by the faint light which shone into the room from a nearby street lamp he could make out the outline of the boy. He later ascertained his condition and then notified Mr. Clayton, who hurried to the house.

The narrow room in which the boy was kept was foul and ill kept. The floor was littered with rubbish. A sudden corn cob, every grain of which had been picked, lay in one corner of the room and a small chunk of beef which looked as if some animal had gnawed at it, lay on the bare boards of the cot.

According to the story of the boy, who was taken to the detention home on Milwaukee street, he was being punished for remaining out late at night. He said that he had been chained in the same prison for four days once before for playing against the orders of his father.

Steps will be taken to prosecute the father, although as yet he has not been arrested.

PYTHIAN ENCAMPMENT ENDS.

IDAHO DEMOCRATS SPLIT.

WALLACE, Idaho, Aug. 8.—The democrats split in the state convention, the Dubois faction and the anti-Dubois faction each nominating a state ticket.

est of the elders, indeed, but always on such a basis that the newer element could not take grievous offense. Without him the blunt and plain-spoken Aldrich, Hale and Frye will find themselves handicapped as never before in efforts to keep down the insurrection.

Plan Aldrich's Downfall.
It is rather expected that the first real fight will come when the committees of the senate are to be reorganized at the beginning of the next congress. The elders have always been allowed to dictate, practically, the committee on committees. There are growing manifestations of a disposition to make a fight on this question; to have a show-down; to insist that the distribution shall be more equitable.

WIFE DIES SOON AFTER HUSBAND

REESEVILLT, Wis., Aug. 8.—When Andrew Lapp died his wife became so despondent in her grief that she followed him in death seven hours later. Both were well known people of Pulice, Wis., a small town near here, and their wedded life was known for its singular happiness and the loving devotion of husband and wife. Mr. Lapp was 93 years of age and his wife was fourteen years his junior. They were both buried in a double grave in Lowell cemetery, the entire town following the tow hearse. A double set of pallbearers composed of men who had known the couple for more than a generation, carried the caskets to the grave.

An Overvaunted Virtue.

S. I. Kimball, the general superintendent of the life saving service at Washington, said the other day of an applicant for a certain post:

"The man was recommended for his steadiness. Now, steadiness is a virtue, especially a life saving, that by itself does not go very far. Whenever I think of it I think of an old lady I used to know."

"Mrs. Madden, a gentleman once said to this old lady, 'your neighbor, Herbert Bisbing, has applied to me for work. Is he steady?'"

"Mrs. Madden threw up her hands. 'Steady, is it?' she said. 'Sure if he was any steadier he'd be dead.'" —New York Tribune.

GRANDSTAND FALLS AND CAUSES PANIC

But Quietness is Finally Restored, and Performance Resumed—Large Number Injured.

ELGIN, Ill., Aug. 8.—Six persons, all residents of Elgin, were painfully injured, six others badly bruised and hundreds of men and women thrown into a panic at a horse taming show, when the bleachers crashed to the ground, endangering the lives of three hundred people.

The injured: Tucker, Mrs. Isabella, muscles of back strained; other bruises. Sherwood, Mrs. L. H., limb caught between timbers and severely bruised; head also injured. Gunnison, Mrs. L. F., ankle sprained and minor injuries. Anderson, Mrs. G. W., leg injured. Witse, W. H., slightly bruised. Patchen, Hazel, leg injured.

Soft ground at the east end of the enclosure into which stakes were driven to brace the stand made the accident possible. The stakes split soon after the crowd mounted the bleachers and the structure gradually settled until it worked past the

FORD HELPED SHOW THE MAN FROM MISSOURI HOW TO SEE EUROPE ON $3.75 PER DAY

Dr. A. H. Heaton, of Sedalia, Mo., in Detroit after a seven thousand mile tour through Europe in a Ford runabout has a most interesting tale to tell of his experiences of the past four months.

Leaving New York late in April, Dr. Heaton started his tour from Paris on May 15th.

"Before leaving Paris I had to undergo a severe examination as to my ability to drive. Having successfully passed those requirements relating to mental equipment, habits, etc., the examiner went out in the car with me for the final test on the boulevard."

"Take every vehicle of every nature in Detroit, mass them on Woodward Avenue, and you know how the boulevards are crowded at all hours. There are no speed laws in Paris—go as fast as you can—if the pedestrian is run down, he, not the driver, is arrested. The laws are very strict in regard to signals—there is no indiscriminate tooting of horns allowed. Every sound means something definite. A horn blown behind you means the car behind is speedier and desires to pass. You must immediately pull to the side and permit the approaching car to pass. The use of rear lights is enforced. Ill smelling exhausts forbidden and violations severely punished."

"There are fewer auto accidents in Paris than in Detroit despite the enormous number of cars there. My examiner gave me a command suddenly to stop. With one foot on the emergency, the other on the reverse, I pulled up so short that he went over the dash and would have fallen out had I not caught him. I passed."

"With me on the tour was Mr. Emil Bichsel, a fellow townsman, and we traveled in a Model N 15-h. p. Ford runabout. The route lay southwest from Paris over the Cevennes Mountains through Moulin, Monte Carlo and Lyons, and from Paris to Genoa, Italy, we made the entire distance on high speed. On June 5th we rested above the clouds, several inches of snow covering the top of the mountains. The next day in the valley we found it 80 degrees in the shade."

"We had an interesting experience at a little mountain town in southern France. We carried a letter of introduction to a gentleman there who had considered handling Ford cars, but was fearful of their being able to make good in the mountainous region. I invited him for a ride up the mountain side and had him yelling to stop, while I pretended ignorance of the language and dashed on to the top. He wired Paris for a car and won a hill-climb the following week."

"The trip through France was delightful. The roads though hilly are very fine—regular boulevards—the scenery is wonderful, and touring through the country a glorious experience."

"Stopping only at the best of hotels, living well at every stage, our expense for the week ending May 23rd covering the trip from Paris to Genoa was $3.08 per day per person. This did not cover luxuries, of course, but included hotel bills, gasoline and oil, garage charges, repairs and tips."

"From Genoa we went south to Rome and Pompeii and up the eastern shore of Italy to Venice practically traversing the entire coast of Italy. Striking east once more, we entered Switzerland, making successively Geneva, Bern, Interlaken and from Interlaken to Luzerne, while hazardous, was well worth the time. The pass is open to automobiles only between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m., being too risky at other hours."

"We had no trouble going over the mountains of Switzerland, making excellent time, and up to the time we entered Germany had had no repairs of any kind to make."

"Entering Germany we visited Strassburg and Berlin, then crossed the country through the Netherlands, south through Belgium and back to Paris. From Paris we crossed the English Channel to London and visited the principal cities of England, Scotland and Ireland."

"We saw more of Europe than the average tourist ever sees. We had no inconvenience waiting for trains, hunting up baggage, securing tickets—no stuffy railway coaches, no sticking to circumscribed roads bound down by steel rails. We traveled on no set schedule, went as fast or as slowly as we desired, saw the country that the railroads never touch, crossed the mountains and visited the lakes, all exactly as we pleased."

"For the entire trip, our expenses averaged not quite $3.75 per day, and the car is as good as ever—the riders better. We started out to prove that automobile touring need not be expensive. We proved it to be even less costly than we anticipated."

"Gasoline cost us from 60c to $1 per gallon. At the United States prices the cost of the trip would have been much lower. I see no reason why a party of two or three persons could not tour the entire United States at a cost under $3.00 per day."

SUPPLY SHIP IS AT AUCKLAND TODAY

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Aug. 8.—The Culgoa, the supply ship of the United States battleship fleet, arrived last evening from Honolulu. The Culgoa received, just before her arrival, a wireless from the fleet stating it was encountering the roughest weather it had seen since leaving Hampton Roads. The fleet arrives here Sunday and during the week Auckland promises an entertainment for the officers and men rivaling that of San Francisco.

MINNESOTA TO HAVE "JAG" FARM

FAIRMONT, Minn., Aug. 8.—(Special.)—The state board of control by a decision of the supreme court recently will now be able to proceed with the location and erection of a state "jag" farm, a home and farm for inebriates. The measure was hotly contested, but was found lawful and a retreat for habitual drunkards is now assured. Fairmont thinks that the farm ought to be located there as there are a great many in need of it.

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST

THREE LITTLE TOTS DIE IN FLAMES

AGED 1, 2 AND 4 YEARS OLD
BURNED TO DEATH

NEIGHBORS' RESCUE FUTILE

Their Efforts Were in Vain, as Little Ones Were Locked in Room—All Were Dead When Found

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 8.—Three little children, 1, 2 and 4 years of age, respectively, were burned to death at noon yesterday in Minneapolis.

The mother, Mrs. Frank Lindberg, 2324 Nineteenth avenue south, left the home in the morning for a shopping trip down town. Before leaving she locked the three children in a room, leaving them alone during her absence.

The house caught fire in some manner, and the blaze was well under way before neighbors heard the screams of the little ones, as they cried out in great fright for their mother to rescue them.

But the mother was down town shopping and the little ones were locked in a room of the burning house.

Neighbors rushed to the scene and finally succeeded in breaking windows on the side of the house which was blazing less fiercely.

But it was the wrong side of the house, for the children were confined in that portion where the fire was raging fiercely.

Their pitiful screams grew fainter and fainter and finally ceased altogether. They were dead.

When the rescuers finally reached the room, just as the mother returned from her shopping trip, there was nothing there but charred and lifeless bodies of the babies.

IS CHARGED WITH STRANGER'S DEATH

FARIBAULT, Minn., Aug. 8.—The coroner's jury in the case of the unidentified man who was killed, it is alleged, by a blow struck by Harry Apricht, a week ago, has returned a verdict holding Apricht responsible for the man's death.

Many witnesses were examined and most of them testified that Apricht struck the stranger without cause or provocation. Several, however, believed that Apricht was quarreling with the dead man's companion and the victim of the affray was struck while acting as peacemaker. That Apricht struck the only blow was the testimony of a dozen witnesses.

The dead man, in company with another stranger, came to the city on the train from the north and were driven from the depot in a hack. Within fifteen minutes after their arrival the alleged assault occurred.

Frank Kline, the officer who arrested Apricht, testified that the prisoner shouldered the blame for the blow and quietly submitted to the arrest.

Men Past Sixty in Danger

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rockport, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." O. T. Erhart.

OLD MAN MURDERED AND $10,000 MISSING

JANESVILLE, Ill., Aug. 8.—Peter Meyer, seventy-five years old, a recluse, was found dead on the floor of a box car in which he lived on the outskirts of this village. The body was several feet from his bed, surrounded by overturned chairs and torn clothing. Meyer's mouth was clotted with blood and there were many indications that his death was not a natural one.

Meyer, who had lived here for twenty-five years, is supposed to have been worth $25,000. Two weeks ago he sold a 100-acre farm and it was generally believed that he had placed the proceeds with other money which he had hidden in his crude home.

TWO RESCUED FROM FLAMES AT WINONA

WINONA, Minn., Aug. 8.—The "First and Last Chance" saloon and general store of Thomas E. Wall at Sugar Loaf was damaged to the amount of about $2,000 by fire which started in some unknown manner in the night. The loss is covered by insurance. Miss Hattie A. Ahrens and Frank Smith, who slept in the rooms on the second floor, were overcome by smoke and were rescued with some difficulty by Mr. and Mrs. Wall.

HOBOS RIDING BOX CARS.

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Aug. 8.—The Northern Pacific railroad has put on three special police in this city to stop the tramp nuisance. The hoboes are going through the city in a wholesale fashion and are causing much trouble to the company. The special police are instructed to take all hoboes off the trains and start them up the right of way.

Officials of the road say that every train which comes into the city has seals broken and goods stolen. It is estimated that there are at least 125 hoboes going through the city daily.

The home of Charles Gravel was entered and $21 taken. It is thought that a negro hobo was the culprit, as he was seen hanging around the place.

OPENS FIGHT FOR LICENSE.

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 8.—The legal battle to open the saloon operated by John Haas in Moorhead, which closed last Sunday when the council revoked the license was started today when W. H. Barnett made a record trip to Fergus Falls, Minn., in an auto, where he appeared before Judge Baxter and made application for a writ of certiorari, a hearing on which will be held on Aug. 10. It is understood that Haas, who is a heavy real estate owner in Fargo, will fight the case to the last court.

MAYOR HAS $1,000 NOSE.

CLARKSDALE, Minn., Aug. 8.—Incensed because Mayor J. H. Johnson imposed a fine he claimed was unjust, Fred Alcorn, nephew of former Governor and United States senator Alcorn, attacked the mayor, breaking his nose. The trial resulted in fining Alcorn $1,000, some of which was held up pending good behavior.

CAN'T EVEN KILL HIMSELF.

JANESVILLE, O., Aug. 8.—While placing a noose about his neck for the purpose of committing suicide, James Loremyer, a farmer living near here, dropped dead. Death was due to apoplexy brought on by excitement, according to the coroner.

DIES AT AGE OF 107 YEARS

LITTLE FALLS, Minn., Aug. 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth Tendell died at her home near this city at the unusual age of 107 years, 3 months and 1 day.

New York and Philadelphia cannot be more pleasantly or conveniently reached than by the Grand Trunk-Lehigh Valley double track route via Niagara Falls. Solid through trains of coaches and sleeping cars. Magnificent scenery.

BUFFALO, O., Minn.—A very successful term of teachers' training school closed here Wednesday. Over 100 teachers were enrolled.

What a New Jersey Editor Says

M. T. Lynch, Editor of the Philadelphia, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for coughs and colds in my family but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in praise of it." O. T. Erhart.

DYNAMITERS WRECK A NEGRO TENEMENT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 8.—In the mysterious dynamiting of a negro double tenement at Camden, Ark. this morning, two persons were killed and nine injured, one fatally. The house was torn to splinters by the heavy charge. Ed Moore, the head of one of the families, was hurled twenty feet away into a bush and escaped with a few slight bruises. Two of the children of Jim Arnold were killed and one from the Moore family is dying. The cause of the dynamiting is unknown.

GRAIN HARVESTED ALL EXCEPT WHEAT

CROP REPORT SHOWS YIELD IS BOUNTIFUL

RUST DID BUT LITTLE HARM

Reports Show it Will Make Itself Felt, but Damage Will Not Be Widespread

Next week will see all grain harvested in this vicinity except wheat, flax and corn, according to crop report No. 19, covering conditions on the Northwestern line west of this city. The report deals more fully with the damage done by black rust in South Dakota. While the damage will make itself felt, still it will not be a setback to prosperity.

The report issued read: "Weather since last report has been dry with moderate temperature, and harvest has progressed rapidly. All grain crops will be practically harvested except wheat, flax and corn, and wheat harvest will be practically finished from Clark and De Smet west, south and north, and Minnesota, and well started in eastern South Dakota, all be harvested next week except corn. We have very few rye and barley reports that indicate satisfactory yields from both Minnesota and South Dakota.

"Damage by black rust is conceded in a limited district in South Dakota to late wheat, and the extent of such damage to prospective crop of late wheat in such district is considerable. The extent of damage to such district on all grains is best explained by the statement that such damaged district will produce and ship more grain than the same district did last season, and the per cent of reduction on the entire state is less. To arrive at a correct understanding it is necessary to know if a statement is made on an average crop, last season's crop, or the prospective crop before injury.

"South Dakota will not produce as high an average yield of wheat per year, or as good quality as the prospective yield or quality two weeks ago, but the prospective yield of wheat was then above twenty bushels per acre, while the average yield for the state is a full crop, not to exceed eleven bushels, and last year below the average. With the increased acreage of wheat, which is small, the increased acreage and yield of barley and flax, increased acreage of oats, and prospective corn crops, South Dakota and Minnesota along our line will produce about one-third more grain than last season."

TABRIZ SECEDES FROM THE SHAH

BATTLE-SCARRED CITY WILL AFFILIATE WITH SULTAN

YOUNGER TURKS BEHIND IT

Turkish Ruler Will Probably Order Troops to Help Revolutionists to Crush Persian Forces.

CONTANTINOPLE, Aug. 8.—Tabriz, the storm center of the Persian revolution, and the second largest city in the empire, has seceded from Persia and declared allegiance to Turkey, according to authoritative dispatches arriving here today. Already the Turkish force near the Persian border is moving toward Tabriz to join in the attack on the shah's army, provided affirmative orders are received from the Turkish government. It is believed that the sultan does not dare to check the pro-Persian movement of the young Turks who are back of the secession of Tabriz.

The new cabinet, dominated by young Turks, is strongly disposed to accept the allegiance of Tabriz, on the ground that the shah's misgovernment and cruel repression justify their intervention in the name of humanity. If the Turkish troops are permitted to add the revolutionists, the shah's soldiers will undoubtedly be overwhelmingly defeated.

WINONANS' PICNIC MOST SUCCESSFUL

The Winona grocers' excursion and outing at Pettibone Island, according to Henry Hess, secretary of the Winona association, was a great success.

"I think that undoubtedly our next excursion will go to Pettibone," said Mr. Hess. "The excursion this year was a great success, both financially and otherwise. Just how much was made I am not in position to state, as yet, for the reason that all of our bills are not in.

"The grocer's excursions for the past thirteen years have been excursion events of the season in Winona and in most every instance have been successful."

The one thing needed in grocers' excursions, according to Mr. Hess, is more prizes for events. This always takes with the crowd, he says, and stimulates interest. He also commented on the fact that it was the thirteenth excursion, but said that it hadn't proved "unlucky" in any way.

TRAMP STOLE TWO PAIRS OF TROUSERS

George Williams, a vagrant, was picked up in the Milwaukee railroad yards yesterday afternoon by Officers Dineen and Fitzpatrick. When searched he was found to have two new pairs of trousers and when asked where he got them he said he bought them at Dubuque. The police, however, made an investigation at the local merchants and found that Williams had stolen the goods from a table in front of the M. & C. Newburg store, corner of Third and Pearl street.

The Newburg store had not reported the robbery although they discovered the goods missing last evening. This morning they were of the opinion that the trousers were taken during the noon hour when only a few were in the store and the street was more or less crowded. They report four pairs of trousers missing but so far the police have located but two.

Williams will probably be arraigned before Judge Brindley late this afternoon or Monday morning.

BRYANT WILL GO TO ANNIVERSARY

The celebration takes place Monday a few days in advance of the anniversary date and all the old veterans of the state have been invited to take part. A rousing camp fire will be the crowning feature of the occasion.

TO HAVE POWER LINE
NEAR PORTAGE

PORTAGE, Wis., Aug. 8.—Surveyors are running a line through Columbia county from Kilbourn for the Southern Wisconsin Power company.

By running through Portage, Wyanona, Rio and Columbus the company may be able to supply these points with power, so that each of these towns will have practically all the advantages of the power produced by the Kilbourn dam. The loss of power in transmission has been so reduced by modern invention as to amount to a very small percentage. The main difficulty is in obtaining the right of way.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge.

When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgment are affected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood.

FOUR IMPURE BLOOD can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 603 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine of known composition, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

ARRESTED CHARGED WITH BOY MURDER

STEPHEN COMBRAEITZ CON-NECTED WITH LAD'S DEATH

LIVED AT THE BOY'S HOME

Is Found in a Cheap Lodging House and Is Taken to Chicago on Steamer Goodrich

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 8.—Stephen Combraeitz was arrested at his boarding house near Beebe's gravel pit, two miles southwest of the city, in connection with the murder of Tuffa Shishelm, a 15 year old boy, whose dismembered body was found strewn along Mud lake and adjacent waters in Chicago.

Detectives Ward Vogel and William Georgopoulos came up to this city from Chicago and after conferring with Chief Baker went at once to the boarding house accompanied by Officer George of this department, and by means of a photograph and a description found the man they wanted. They at once hustled him off to the Goodrich boat to take him back to Chicago. They would not disclose what information they had against Combraeitz.

Inspector Dorman after a long interview with Samuel Shishelm declared that the lad had been the victim of a degenerate.

SCHILD MARKETS
THE FIRST OATS

H. Schild of Boscawen Valley was the first farmer to market a load of this year's oats. This year the oats were the earliest that have been brought in for five years. Usually they are not brought in before the 11th or 12th of August. The oats brought 42 cents in the city.

ORE MOVEMENT SHORT.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 8.—Ore shipments for the season up to Aug. 1 were 10,299,353 tons behind last year for the same time. There was a strike on the docks and at the mines at the head of Lake Superior in July, 1907, or the loss would have been much greater. The fleet moved 7,235,280 tons of ore up to Aug. 1 this season. It is not expected that shipments will show much of an increase this month, but a better movement of ore is looked for after Sept. 1. The outside figure that has been named for the total movement for 1908 is 25,000,000 tons.

BOAT BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE

PORTAGE, Wis., Aug. 8.—The yacht Tosca en route from Portage to Endeavor, sank in the Fox river. Its owner, S. Caro, barely escaped with his life. The gasoline exploded and the boat burned to the water's edge. Mr. Caro was alone in the boat and had considerable difficulty reaching shore. The Tosca was a twenty-two foot launch.

BUSTING BRONCHOS
AT THE WILD WEST

When Buffalo Bill appears with his Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders in this city he will present a delegation of cowboys and cowgirls as a special feature of his exhibition. The real cowboy is fast disappearing into history but as a compensation for his disappearance the cowgirl is coming into prominence and Buffalo Bill has done his share to exploit her in practical public demonstrations of her skill in the saddle.

While women naturally cannot endure the privations and hardships of frontier life to the same degree as can the cowboys or herdsmen of the plains, she has been able to adapt herself to usefulness as a public exponent of equestrian skill which matches favorably with the feats of her brother horsemen. With Buffalo Bill's Wild West will be seen several cowgirls, some of whom will content themselves with exhibitions of grace and skill, while some will exemplify their right to respect as broncho busters and riders of bucking horses.

The real difficult and hazardous work of riding an untamed steed will be exemplified by a band of real cowboys who have spent the better part of their lives in the saddle, following the herds of cattle upon the plains and participating in the annual round ups. In accord with his policy of presenting genuine features,

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

Buffalo Bill has assembled a band of genuine cowboys, representatives of a class of rugged westerners now fast passing from view. These cowboys will demonstrate the noble art of broncho busting as it has been practiced for years upon the frontier.

The broncho is a direct descendant of the wild horse which shares the open prairies with the Indian, when the trackless plains were the hunting-ground of the redmen. His disposition to buck seems to be derived from his natural disinclination to submit to the rule and government of those who seek to tame his turbulent spirits and limit his freedom to the daily grind of useful purposes. Some horses buck from fear, others from sudden grievances; but a majority buck from pure viciousness, although it is thought that there are still others which buck for the fun of it.

Whatever their purpose may be, the result of their actions produces a deal of excitement for the rider who may elect to bust him. There is a vast element of danger in the occupation of broncho busting and the hospital records and death rolls which have resulted from the efforts of man to subdue the wild spirits of the western pony are mute testimony to the viciousness of the wild beast of the plains.

The broncho adopts many style of bucking and at times combines all his art in a melange of snorting, kicking, humping and jumping gyrations which often conquer the conqueror and at best give the rider a decidedly lively and unpleasant few moments if nothing worse. But if the broncho is not subdued at the first trial it is doubly difficult to eventually bring him into a state of submission. If a rider fails to burst him at the first attempt the horse seems to realize his ability and thereafter fights doubly hard against the rule of the master hand.

In the Wild West exhibition the peculiarities of the bucking horse and the daring of the broncho buster will be set forth in an authentic and realistic manner; for with Buffalo Bill everything is genuine and the student of nature, the student of history or the simple seeker after entertainment will find themselves enjoying the real article in every detail of the varied program which is to be presented.

Much sympathy is wasted on people who ought to be ashamed to keep the undertaker waiting for a job.

It is most discouraging to notice that had luck often falls persistently on people who don't deserve it. Do give other people the privilege of being vain about something; it is a harmless safety valve.

A RECORD TO BE PROUD OF.

The Northwestern Conservatory of Music, of Minneapolis, has a record of twenty-three years of successful operation, and can refer to over 10,000 pupils from all parts of the Northwest who have enjoyed its advantages in that time. This institution has now a faculty of thirty instructors, all high class specialists, and under the management of Miss Olive Adele Evers of Stanley Hall, offers exceptional opportunities amid congenial surroundings, to those seeking instruction in music, art or expression. An attractive feature in this connection is the offer of free scholarships under the conditions which will be gladly explained by the management. From the use of these scholarships a number of pupils have attained eminence in their several lines during the past few years.

"You husband will be all right now," said an English doctor to a woman whose husband was dangerously ill. "What do you mean?" demanded the wife. "You told me 'couldn't live a fortnight.' 'Well, I'm going to cure him, after all,' said the doctor. 'Surely you are glad?' The woman wrinkled her brows. 'Puts me in a bit of an 'ole,' she said. 'I've bin an' sold all 'is clothes to pay for 'is funeral.'"

ROBBED PLANT FOR YEARS—IS CAUGHT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 8.—In the arrest of Norman E. Guilbault, trusted employee for eight years of the O'Neil Oil and Paint company, 297-303 East Water street, by Detective Edward Biersach, the police believe they have stopped a systematic method of burglary which has been going on at the O'Neil plant for four or five years.

During the time thousands of dollars' worth of material has been stolen and only recently, when the police department was notified, was Guilbault suspected. His subsequent confession of recent burglaries has convinced the police that he is also guilty of thefts for years.

Watched at Night. Guilbault disposed of stolen material through Walter Kopplekan, who, not knowing the value of what he was selling to Bloedel & Snider, junk dealers, was paid 10 and 15 cents by Guilbault for making three trips to the plant every week. By using the boy Guilbault, it is said, was able to avoid suspicion for years.

Several months ago the company put private detectives on the case, but met no results. Detective Edward Biersach, when on duty at work, first learned of the youth's visits to the plant, and that each time he carried a big sack of supposed junk away to be sold. For several nights Biersach watched around the plant, and finally detected Guilbault in the act of stealing supplies and secreting them in gunny sacks. En route to the junk shop on a wagon with the gunny sacks full of supposed junk Kopplekan was stopped. Examination of the contents showed them to contain many pounds of zinc slabs of considerable value. Another watch was made for Guilbault and when he was caught in the act of stealing more bags, he was taken by surprise and arrested.

Why ELFENBRÄU is good for you.

THE delicious, refreshing qualities of Elfenbrau, the new Bottle Beer, are but a part of its real merit. It's exceptional food and tonic properties are what make Elfenbrau the choice of the most fastidious beer drinkers.

Barley Malt makes a food—and Bohemian Hops produce one of the best tonics. Together with the choicest of the above ingredients we use pure, clear, sparkling water—proven by tests to be the best adapted to brewing of any in the country.

The percentage of alcohol in Elfenbrau Beer has been reduced to about 3½ per cent, just enough to be a gentle aid to digestion, and much less than contained in most patent medicines.

Drink it with your meals at home and let your family enjoy its delicious flavor and healthfulness.
